ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

10

15

A switching mechanism of a lens barrel includes a stationary barrel having a stop groove; a lens holding ring, a distance adjustment ring and an AF/MF switching ring, each positioned concentrically with the stationary The AF/MF switching ring is prevented from barrel. rotating relative to the stationary barrel by engagement of the engaging member with the stop groove while a driving force is transferred from a power source to the distance adjustment ring to move the lens holding ring along the optical axis when the AF/MF switching ring is in the AF Rotation of the AF/MF switching ring is transferred to the distance adjustment ring to move the lens holding ring along the optical axis while the driving force is prevented from being transferred from the power source to the distance adjustment ring when the AF/MF switching ring is in the MF position.